Washington, DC - Congressman Bruce Braley (D-Iowa) announced today a $1.3 million grant for the city of Dubuque. The grant is through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and will be used to stimulate the local housing market.

"This grant invests in Dubuque's economic future at a very crucial time," Braley said. "Dubuque is a growing city and a true economic success story. As Iowa continues to recover from the economic downturn, investing in our neighborhoods and cities is key to achieving successful growth."

The Community Development Block grant program is sponsored by HUD and aims to develop housing and expand economic opportunities specifically for low to moderate-income workers.
